#solidarity with Ukraine

Our German museum colleagues from Nuremberg report: "Germany's support for your country is huge: the Berlin History Museum is releasing all of its social media platforms for news from Ukraine. Many bakeries bake sweets with the Ukrainian flag. For us, you are all heroes. Keep fighting. It is a struggle for democracy and freedom throughout Europe."

It is with great sadness that we are following the events in Ukraine. Unfortunately, from here, from Portugal, we can't do anything more than send some goods to the Ukrainian people. We will be available to collaborate, as far as possible, with colleague Oleksandr Mikhno.

We pray that the war ends as soon as possible and that the heritage is saved, for memory for our descendants.

Dear colleagues,

We, from the National Museum of Education - Gabrovo, are horrified by the act of aggression and the impact it will have on the population of Republic of Ukraine.

For years, we have stood against the erosion of civic space and democracy in Europe, and today we are seeing these values being completely disregarded. We have seen severe violations of human rights in the occupied Donetsk, Luhansk and Crimea, and the spread of such violations in the rest of Ukraine would constitute an enormous setback for human rights in the region

Given what is now happening in Ukraine and the values we stand for, we, the people who work in the field of culture, educational history and museums, call on both Europe and the world to condemn this attack in the strictest possible way and to impose severe sanctions on all

#solidarity_with_Ukraine

We thank our colleagues from the National Museum of the History of Education in Gabrovo (Bulgaria) for their support of Ukraine!
